The 2016 global symposium for career guidance and counselling organizations

Tuesday 15 November, Madrid Spain

Thank you for your interest in promoting collaboration among career guidance and counselling organisations during the joint symposium in Madrid. Please find enclosed the revised agenda and practical information on the symposium.

By the end of September 2016, 22 national and international organisations (see Annex 2) expressed their interest in contributing to the discussions with the following goals:

1. To exchange information about our respective organisations and their current and future activities
2. To examine ways in which we can support each other for the advancement of career development policies, systems, practices, and research
3. To examine ways in which we can act as a critical mass to support the advancement of career development in our countries and regions, and also in an international regional perspective.

The way the day will play out is that there will be two morning and one afternoon session focused on the following topics:

- Career services for migrants and refugees
- Interventions in times of economic hardships
- Career development and public policy

Each session will start with a brief catalyst presentation which will then be followed by targeted discussions in groups, with a table chair and a recorder.

The fourth session will be allocated to suggestions for further collaborative efforts in 2019 suggested by the NCDA. The summary of the discussions and the proposal for further co-operation will be published as a communique on the IAEVG website after the symposium.

The table discussions will focus on future co-operation on the selected topics. We do not allocate time for the participating organizations to introduce their activities to the plenary discussions. However, we invite you to bring brochures or handouts introducing your organization and its activities and share them among the symposium participants. If you want to share the handout of your organisation through the Madrid conference website and the IAEVG website after the Symposium, please provide the text during the symposium to Dr Raimo Vuorinen, the Vice-President of the IAEVG (raimo.vuorinen@jyu.fi) and Dr. Jane Goodman (goodman@oakland.edu).

Looking forward in meeting you in Madrid!

Suzanne BULTHEEL
IAEVG President
